

Wine climate cabinets

Wine is one of the few natural products whose quality improves with age; however for this to happen the right environment must be created .

Natural wine cellars are of course the perfect place for storing wine due to the lack of light, vibration and their specific climate. However, our wine coolers are the perfect alternative to a natural wine cellar and ensure that your wines are stored and served at your chosen temperature.

The installation of a wine climate cabinet also confirms, to the environment, that people treat the beautiful natural product of wine seriously and professionally. This means that people will judge the wines on offer better. That will certainly influence the sales of nice wines.

Building-in:

For building in the cabinets, no special accessories or tools are required, however, one should be aware of enough ventilation on the back of the climate cabinet in order to dissipate the heat.

As the door has the exact same dimensions, the door will protrude approx. 5mm when the door is opened 45 degrees. If you open the more than 45 degrees this protrude will disappear. The door can be opened more than 180 degrees. The ventilation grille at the front is used to draw in "fresh air" (which is created when the warm air at the rear rises - it creates a suction effect).
